1. What can I do?

Depending on your interest and skill set, there are a variety of ways you can participate in the ControlTier project.

Join Mailing lists: Participate in the discussion about ControlTier on our mailing lists.

Report Bugs: If you are using ControlTier and find something does not work the way you expect it to, we would definitely like to hear about it. Submit a new bug to the ControlTier bug tracker.

Platform developer: The ControlTier platform is divided into server and client components. If you are an experienced Java developer familiar with developing web-based applications and are willing to dive into a large piece of software with many layers, this is the project for you! Go to the ControlTier Sourceforge project and checkout the sourcecode and dig in.

Note:

Coming soon: A developer wiki

Module developer: Are you an expert in a deploying a particular software platform? Are you adept at solving automation problems? We'd like to hear from you. Even if you are just contributing domain-specific knowledge, you can still be a big help.
